

Steven Yap is Stepping Up as New IPification President

April 3, 2023 – Hong Kong

Steven Yap, an accomplished telecommunications industry veteran, is stepping up as the new president of IPification. In his new role, Steven will focus on streamlining the company’s acquisitions, team leadership and business development.

A Simon Fraser University graduate, Steven Yap has over 20 years of experience in the telecommunication industry with a proven track record, including that of a co-founder. This makes him perfect for the role of President at IPification.

IPification Founder & former President, Mr Harry Cheung, is staying with the company with a focus on strategy and vision.

“I’ve wanted to step down as the president of IPification for some time now to focus on more strategic issues. However, it wasn’t until I spoke with Steven that I knew I was ready to pass the torch. I’m convinced his extensive experience will make him an invaluable addition to IPification.”

— Harry Cheung, IPification Founder.

“Having worked in the telecommunications industry, I have seen first-hand what the biggest pain points were, and now also how IPification can help address them. I'm looking forward to working with the team. Thank you for your trust, Harry.”

— Steven Yap, IPification President
